The image shows a web browser window displaying the Airbnb homepage. The top navigation bar includes the Airbnb logo, a search bar, and standard browser controls. The main content area features a vibrant, abstract illustration of two profiles facing each other, surrounded by a landscape of water, mountains, and foliage. Overlaid on this illustration is a user interface for selecting language and region. At the top, there are two tabs: "Language and region" (which is highlighted with a black border) and "currency". Below this, the text "Choose a language and region" is displayed. Several language options are listed in boxes: "English United states" (with a red border around "United states"), "Deutsch schweiz", "简体中文 中国" (Chinese Simplified), "Eesti Eesti", and "Suomi suomi". Additionally, there is a box for "English Singapore". The overall design is clean and modern, utilizing a color palette that complements the background illustration.

A perfect fall get away, with all the foliage everywhere around you. A quick little walk down to the creek behind their home, a wonderful fire pit area with great ambiance of lights, and super comfortable and cozy beds to

Jessia

The Honeycrisp Cottage is cute as it can be! The view from the fire pit into the forest is unbeatable (especially during foliage season). The cottage is removed from town, so if you're looking to be close by to places this might not be for you but, if you're looking for some peace and quiet, this is your place! I will say there were a bunch of tiny gnats swarming around the inside of the cottage the whole time we were there, maybe from the plants?
